

The Pattern: Part 12

Go, Preach, and Do the Works of Jesus

The journey of faith is one of transformation, growth, and purpose. In this twelfth installment of "The Pattern" series, we delve deeper into the critical components of living as a disciple of Jesus Christ.

This teaching will explore the progression from becoming a practicing disciple to fulfilling the call to go, preach, and do the works of Jesus. By understanding and following this divine pattern, believers are equipped to carry out the mission entrusted to them by Christ.

The Foundation of the Pattern

The initial steps in "The Pattern" lay the groundwork for a life devoted to Christ. These foundational steps include:

- 1. Practicing Discipleship (F.O.R.C.E.): The journey begins with a commitment to follow Jesus through faith, obedience, repentance, and confession. This is not a passive belief but an active lifestyle of living out the teachings of Christ.
- 2. Water Baptism: This marks the believer's spiritual birth into the family of God. Through water baptism, we symbolically participate in the death, burial, and resurrection of Jesus Christ (Romans 6:3-4). It is a public declaration of faith and serves as a spiritual circumcision (Colossians 2:11-12), signifying our covenant relationship with God.
- 3. Baptism in the Holy Spirit: This step empowers believers with "dunamis"—miraculous power and might (Acts 1:8). It equips us with both spiritual strength and a supernatural communication system with God.
- 4. Speaking in Tongue: As a manifestation of the Holy Spirit's power, speaking in tongues serves as evidence of this baptism (Acts 2:4). It is a divine language that facilitates continual communication with God and enhances spiritual growth.
- 5. Being Taught the Word of God: Accurate and effective teaching of Scripture is essential for spiritual maturity. As Matthew 28:18-20 highlights, Jesus commanded His disciples not only to make disciples but also to teach them to obey His commands. Proper teaching equips believers with an uncompromising understanding of God's Word and prepares them for their mission.

These five foundational steps represent preparation and training for the greater works that Christ has called His followers to accomplish.

The Next Steps in "The Pattern"

Having established a solid foundation, believers are now called to advance to the next three parts of "The Pattern," as outlined in Mark 16:15-20:

1. Go: Jesus commissioned His followers to go into all the world and share the gospel with all creation. This requires action and movement—both physically and spiritually.

A practicing disciple will naturally feel compelled to share the good news of Jesus Christ.

2. Preach the Gospel: The gospel, meaning "good news," is mentioned 100 times in the New Testament. It is the message of salvation through Jesus Christ, encompassing the truths found in the foundational steps of "The Pattern."

A key question arises: How can one preach an uncompromising gospel without first being firmly grounded in these truths?

Accurate teaching ensures that when we preach, we deliver a message that is both truthful and impactful.

3. Do the Works of Jesus: Jesus declared in John 14:12-14 that those who believe in Him would do the works He did—and even greater works—because He was going to the Father.

These works include casting out demons, healing the sick, and demonstrating His love and power through action.

However, it is essential to recognize that these works are not meant to glorify ourselves but to glorify God and advance His kingdom.

The Interconnectedness of "The Pattern"

Each part of "The Pattern" builds upon the previous one, creating an interconnected framework for spiritual growth and effective ministry. For instance:

- A practicing disciple who has experienced water baptism understands their identity as a child of God and is compelled to share this transformative experience with others.
- Baptism in the Holy Spirit equips believers with supernatural power and a divine communication system, enabling them to preach with boldness and clarity.
- Speaking in tongues enhances this communication by providing direct access to God's wisdom and guidance as believers go forth to preach.
- Accurate teaching lays a solid foundation for an uncompromising gospel message, ensuring that what is preached aligns with God's truth.

Conversely, neglecting any part of "The Pattern" can hinder a believer's ability to fulfill their calling effectively. For example:

- A non-practicing disciple lacks the conviction and urgency to go and share the gospel.
- Without water baptism, a believer may struggle with fully embracing their new identity in Christ, which could impact their confidence in preaching.
- Those who have not received the baptism in the Holy Spirit with tongues may lack the supernatural boldness and communication necessary for advancing God's kingdom.
- Inaccurate or ineffective teaching can lead to a diluted or harmful message that fails to reflect the fullness of God's Word.

The Call to Examine and Align

As believers, it is our responsibility to examine ourselves and ensure that we are aligned with "The Pattern" established by Jesus Christ.

Acts 17:11 reminds us of the importance of diligently examining Scripture to verify the truth of what we are taught.

This practice safeguards us from being led astray by false teachings or incomplete understandings.

Teaching holds particular significance within "The Pattern." It shapes our thoughts, which influence our words and ultimately direct our actions (Luke 6:45; James 3:1-5).

Therefore, accurate teaching is not merely an academic exercise but a transformative process that equips us to live out our faith effectively.

Moving Forward

As we continue our journey through "The Pattern," let us remain steadfast in our commitment to grow as disciples of Jesus Christ.

The first five parts—practicing discipleship, water baptism, baptism in the Holy Spirit, speaking in tongues, and accurate teaching—serve as our foundation.

They prepare us to step into the next phases: going into the world, preaching the gospel, and doing the works of Jesus.

Let us embrace this divine pattern with humility, faith, and obedience. By doing so, we position ourselves to be vessels through which God's power flows, transforming lives and advancing His kingdom on earth.

As we go forth, let us remember that our mission is not merely about numbers or programs but about faithfully doing things God's way.

By adhering to "The Pattern," we can ensure that our efforts are not only fruitful but also aligned with His perfect will.

In conclusion, "The Pattern" offers a clear roadmap for believers who desire to live out their faith authentically and effectively.

It calls us to move beyond passive belief into active discipleship, equipping us with the tools necessary to go, preach, and do the works of Jesus.

Let us strive to embody this pattern in every aspect of our lives and ministry, bringing glory to God and hope to those around us.
